A) BEFORE DESIGNING

A. What is the purpose/aim/goal of the template?

- a) Inviting potential clients to see a show?
- b) Suggesting that they book a show for their own venue/festival?
- c) Informing them about a new show?
- d) Informing them about us attending a conference?

B. Are you telling people what they have to do?

- o Do they have to email us?
- o Do they have to call us?
- o Do they have to click on a video to watch it?

Some people are “idiots” – you have to tell them exactly what to do! If not, they won't do it...

C. Before creating the template, please put yourself in the client's position. If you were to receive this email, would you:

- a. Open it?
- b. Read it?
- c. Click on a link?
- d. Send a response via email?

We need to create attractive emails, but it's not just about the colours.

Offering quality content is also essential: information, invitations, and if they are interested maybe we can discuss collaboration options...

B) WHILE DESIGNING

What does a template need to have? How many parts?

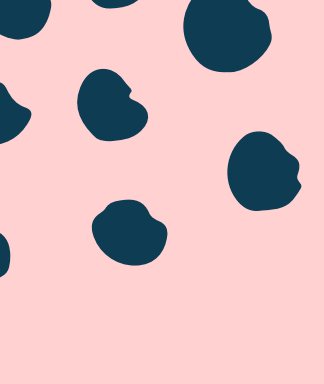

- 1.Design. Colour. No black background, please.
- 2.Header. Flamenco Agency Logo?
- 3.Text & links
- 4.Video(s)
- 5.Photos
- 6.Buttons. Tell people what they need to do!
- 7.Social media
- 8.Contact details
- 9.Footer. Organisations that support us
- 10.Update Flamenco Agency social media accordingly (so the contents, or at least the photos of what we are promoting, match)

C) AFTER HAVING DESIGNED IT

- ☐ Have you tested the email by sending it to yourself? Does it look the way you intended it to?
- ☐ Send it to your mobile phone and to an Outlook email, because the layout sometimes changes quite dramatically.
- ☐ Have you sent your colleagues a test email? Two pairs of eyes always work better than one when designing.
- ☐ Send yourself a test email again... and again. Don't just send yourself one test email!
- ☐ VERY IMPORTANT: Have you thought of any suggestions for a subject line and preview text?
- ☐ Lastly, have you sent a test email to Jaime and gone over it with him? Do not leave this until the day the email needs to be sent or scheduled to be sent!
